Rub In Rub Out is the way you have to wash clothes with soap. First you rub the soap in; that's work, in itself. Then you rub it all out again over the washboard. If you're strong and healthy, and rub hard enough, you may get the dirt all out, too. It's hard work, and every woman knows it. But it isn't the woman only that suffers. She's wearing the clothes out, rubbing them to pieces, all the time. It's just as hard for every thing as it is for every body.

Soak In Soak Out is Pearline's way of washing. All it wants is to be let alone. Put it in the water and it does its own work — yours, too. It brings the dirt out easily and quickly—no hard work, no wearing rub, rub, rub, no washboard.

Doesn't that seem better? It is better. There's a saving of strength and a saving of clothes. And, what some women can't believe, it's absolutely safe. It's just as much so as any good soap.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 377 JAMES PYLE, New York.

When Christmas shopping days begin
How often do we hear it said
Your presents should be useful gifts
Not trifling articles, instead.
Our parents used to wisely plan
To hoard their dollars in the Fall,
Buy goods of value, to a man,
Until they purchased for us all.
Yet now, on the Installment Plan,
Or for Cash—as you prefer,
Fine household goods, a nice Organ,
The public get, while none demur.
However full your purse may be
Endeavor to plan your business well:
And practice strict economy!
'Twill not against your lot rebel.
Keep then in mind this maxim old;
Impressed by weighty common sense,
Nor fail to heed these words of gold;
Surely they'll bring their recompense.
Of certain things there is no doubt;
Nice Furniture we all admire,
Fine Carpets, Parlor Suites and Rugs!
Upholstered Chamber Sets desire.
Rocking Chairs, Organs, Ottomen,
New Mattresses, Sewing Machines, Spreads,
Irish Point Curtains, Pianos—then
Something attractive for our Beds.
Hearth Mats, Crockery, Stoves—for fire,
Invite us whither we should go
Notwithstanding we aspire
Gaudy luxuries—made for show.
Consider these brief suggestions well,
Observe what the Initials spell.

INSOLVENCY MATTERS.

Hearing in the Chapman-Emery Case at Portland.

PORTLAND, Dec. 9. In the insolvency court this morning a hearing was begun on the petition of the Chapman Banking Company, that Frank H. Emery, of Gorham, be adjudged insolvent. Emery dealt in stocks with the Chapmans and lost $25,000. Some of the notes which he gave the Chapmans have lately become due and he has failed to meet them. They now bring this petition and he has brought a cross suit to recover collateral deposited with the Chapmans, claiming that contracts for stock were illegal, as there was no actual delivery, but the delivery was in margins. Testimony has been introduced to-day to show that actual delivery of stock was intended. The case will occupy considerable time.

FIRE RECORD.

A Three Story Block Destroyed.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 9. A fire in the three story brick block numbered 218 to 223 Essex street, damaged the building owned by the Osgood heirs and Mrs. Palmer some $3,000 and destroyed the stocks of Morrill & MacIntyre, stationers, and A. D. Russell, crockery. Russell's loss is $7,500; insurance $5,000; Morrill & MacIntyre's loss is $15,000, and have $10,000 insurance. The building is insured. The fire caught in some packing material in Russell's basement.

CRIMINAL MATTERS.

Indictments Reported by Suffolk County Grand Jury.

BOSTON, Dec. 9. The Suffolk county grand jury reported to-day two indictments against Alexander W. Bryant, colored, one for murder in killing James A. Sullivan and the other for assault with a pistol on Charles R. Howe.

John Mackid is indicted for breaking and entering the house of George H. Randall and assault with an iron bar upon Mrs. Randall, who has since died.

Dr. Mary J. Henderson is indicted for causing the death of Mrs. Eileen Perkins by criminal malpractice.

Mrs. Sarah J. Butler, foster mother of the dead woman, who was held as accessory before the fact, is exonerated.

Mrs. Henderson was arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Taken to His Future Home.

DEDHAM, Mass., Dec. 9. August Langner, convicted of the murder of Mary Emerson, in West Dedham, was taken to Charlestown prison to-day, where he is to serve a life sentence. He says he hopes to soon secure a pardon and still asserts his innocence.

HEART FAILURE

Reported as the Cause of Dr. Grave's Death.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 9. A certificate was received at the city health department from the order of Fraternal Aid, in which the cause of the death of Dr. T. Thatcher Graves is given as heart failure. The coroner's jury in Colorado assigned no cause of the doctor's death, but the document had to contain one and that inserted is heart failure.

WELL KNOWN IN HARTFORD.

George Bunn, a Convicted Murderer, in Belgium.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 9. George Bunn, the American artist, who was yesterday, at Antwerp, Belgium, sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for killing his servant, Anna Hoffman, is well known in this city, where he formerly lived. Five years ago when he came to Hartford from New York, he showed much talent as a water scene painter and his pictures sold readily. Some wealthy patrons of art became interested in him, and about three years ago sent him to Antwerp to study.

DARING BURGLAR

Enters a Shoe Factory, Snatches Money from the Desk and Escapes.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 9. A thief this morning entered the shoe factory of D. A. Sutherland and when the bookkeeper returned to the office with money for the weekly pay roll, some $375, and snatching the money from the desk, dashed from the building and disappeared around the corner before the men in the factory could overtake him. Half an hour after $75 in silver was found in the entry way of a business block near the factory. The thief had not been captured.

LABOR TROUBLES.

The Olneyville Strike.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 9. There is still no prospect of a settlement of the Olneyville strike. A number of meetings were held this morning without result. There was a large crowd at Weybosset Mills, this noon, when the operatives came out, but no disturbance.

IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Masked Men Rob a Wealthy Farmer's House in Framingham, Mass.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Dec. 9. Five masked men entered the house of Paul W. Gibbs, a wealthy farmer of Framingham, near the Marlboro line, early this morning. They drove the family into one room, locked them therein, opened the safe and took silverware, watches and jewelry, but got only a small amount of money. After the robbery the thieves compelled the hired man to hitch up the best team in the stable for them and drove off in the direction of Saxonville.

PRISONERS DISCHARGED.

Exonerated from the Charge of Murder.

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 9. John F. Mahar and Edward F. Luddy, charged with the murder of Collins A. Leaman, in April, 1892, were discharged from custody to-day, at a preliminary hearing, no evidence being found to sustain the charge. Michael Smith had been exonerated from the same charge ten days ago.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN PARIS.

A Deadly Bomb Thrown in Chamber of Deputies.

Several Members Seriously Injured.

PARIS, Dec. 9. Great excitement has been caused here by a dynamite outrage committed within the Chamber of Deputies. While the House was in session this afternoon, a stranger who was occupying a seat in the gallery, threw a dynamite bomb to the floor of the Chamber. As the bomb struck it exploded with a terrific noise, and pieces of the metal casing were thrown in every direction. Deputy Abbe Lemire and six others were hit and seriously injured. M. Lemire is said to be dying.

It has been learned that a time fuse was attached to the bomb and that the explosion occurred before the missile reached the floor of the Chamber.

The Bomb Burst

close to the head of M. Lemire and killed an usher, who was standing near by, instantly.

An American lady who was in the public gallery received a slight wound on the forehead. Two other ladies who were in the lower gallery were injured. A man who was sitting next to the bomb thrower was wounded. The bomb was thrown from an upper gallery. All the members of the House and all the people in the galleries were panic stricken. A reporter picked up from the floor of the House bits of metal and horse shoe nails which had evidently been loaded into the bomb with the explosive. After considerable delay, order was restored among the members and the business of the chamber was resumed.

THE THIRD ONE LYNCHED.

The Last of a Gang of Robbers.

SELMA, Ala., Dec. 9. News reached Selma last evening, that a third lynching had taken place in Dallas county within the last three days, the outcome of the assault on Reuben F. Smith at Berlin, last Monday night. Joe Givhan, implicated in the robbery, was captured yesterday, and swung to a tree. No one seems to know who captured him or lynched him, but his still body hanging to a limb, showed that he had fallen into the hands of lynchers. This is the last of the gang.

PERSONAL.

Mr. L. H. Battalia, of L. H. Battalia & Co., rebuilders of pianos, with factory in Kenduskeag block, over library, invited a WHIG reporter to call at his factory and he did so, and must confess that the visit was of much interest and profit. He learned something he never had heard of before. Mr. Battalia was busily engaged in the delicate work of replacing worn out hammers and actions in a number of old pianos that one could easily perceive had been in use for many years. "A great many people think," said Mr. Battalia, "that their piano is ready to throw away after the action has become worn from many year's service and instruments fail to stay in tune. I am here for the purpose of enlightening the Bangor public on this subject, and propose to prove to the public's entire satisfaction that I can take any action, and, if the sounding board is intact, I can make that piano as good again as on the day it was purchased. See here," continued Mr. Battalia, "look at this book with hundreds of testimonials, many of which are from the leading pianists of the United States, as to their opinion of my skill in the art of reconstruction of pianos." The reporter examined them and recognized the writing of several people of note in musical circles. "You see," said Mr. Battalia, "I have the documents to prove all I claim." And it will be admitted that he had. A personal inspection of his work is all that is necessary to inspire confidence.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Something of Interest about the Work, the Finances and the Future.

The following from Mrs. O. H. Wood, Treasurer of the King's Daughters' Union, will be found of interest to all engaged in the work and people generally:

To the Editor of the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier:

By a vote of the managers of the King's Daughters' Union, the Treasurer was requested to furnish a copy of the following report, read at that meeting for the purpose of publication, with a view of showing our standing as an organization, as well as to inform our friends, who have shown us so much kindness in the past, the facts regarding our recent purchase of a Home, the fund for which has been so generously contributed by them.

At a meeting of the Union held Monday, November 27, after much discussion, it was voted, by a large majority, to purchase the house on Middle street, owned by Ivory W. Coombs.

Accordingly, since that date I have been occupied with business details connected with the transfer of that property to us, and am able to make a report which is very satisfactory to me, and one which should furnish the Union with abundant proof that we are surely being prospered therein.

It is a significant fact that the "Home" which was pleaded for so earnestly on the day of our National Fast, by our clergymen, should have come to us, with all important details attended to, during Thanksgiving week, being practically our own possession on Thanksgiving Day.

The deed is in my keeping, and a careful abstract of the different transfers made in past years, has been furnished me by Mr. Coombs, one of many kindnesses for which we are to thank him, it being a part of our business a d expense, to out do it for ourselves, but which I found he had accomplished, when I called at the Court House for the same.

By arrangement, we were enabled to assign our savings bank books to him as he did not care to use the purchase-money at present, thereby saving us two months interest, a sum amounting to $33.41. He also presented us with the insurance policy, expiring August 1, 1895, which is worth to us about nine dollars. After all business was transacted Mr. Coombs drew out a personal check which he signed for one hundred dollars to aid us in carrying on our work, which work he told me, until he investigated, he thought little of, but which he was convinced was doing much good in the community.

My former report showed a fund of $5,813.37, which, with accrued interest of $33.41, gives us $5,846.78. Deducting purchase money $5,700, left us a check in exchange for $146.78. To this sum sixty-one dollars of the fund since received have been added, so that we have a balance on deposit, with the gift of one hundred dollars, of $307.78.

It is requested that all persons who have subscribed to this fund may pay the amount of their subscription as soon as possible, that the working fund may be deposited in full by the first of January, 1894.

And just here I wish to extend our thanks to the Advisory Committee for aid, as well as to Mr. C. S. Pearl, who, in a purely friendly spirit, so ably assisted them in inspection of the premises, to Mr. Coombs, for his generosity, to Messrs. Wilson and Woodard for legal advice freely given, and for the uniform kindness and courtesy shown me on a business matter the details of which I was quite ignorant of, and which they have brought to so successful an issue.

I would also say a word or two of the encouragement in this venture I have met on every side. Several of our managers were unable, by reason of illness, to be present and vote for the Home. Mrs. Morison, Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Pearl especially interested one; have expressed approval and pleasure in the step we have taken. From our former President, Mrs. Dowst, kind wishes for the success of the undertaking were sent me.

From a financial point, all with whom I have talked have said we surely have made no mistake, one gentleman saying we could have sold the house in a week for $6,000.

The Unity Circle wish to hold a room in the new Home which they will furnish and maintain, as in the past, and if possible, would secure one of the large front chambers, preferably the one on the easterly side formerly occupied by Mr. E. J. Davis.

In expressing this wish, they have no desire to encroach upon the rights of the matron, who would also like a front room as more desirable, which she also proposes to furnish.

The Golden Rule Circle of the Central church wish to furnish as far as possible for them, providing mattings and hangings certainly—one small room.

The former tenants will leave the house almost immediately, so that after a proper heating apparatus has been placed in the cellar, the King's Daughter's will enter into possession—probably early in the new year.

Thanking the public, our friends, for many past favors in our old Home, we will only suggest that any articles of house-furnishing, which are past duty, in your private homes, if sent to us, will be utilized to advantage in our new home, and accepted with grateful hearts by the King's Daughters of Bangor.

At the boundary line in Bridgewater, the other night, reports the Pioneer, Riley Desmond cut several holes into the body of Con. Bradstreet. The men were alone at the time and there are no witnesses to what took place. Bradstreet's heavy overcoat and clothing were badly cut up; and they probably saved his life. Several of the stabs reached his body and cut him in various places. His wounds are not considered dangerous. A warrant was sworn out by the injured man's father before Trial Justice Ramsey for Desmond's arrest, but he has not yet been found.

A $100,000 plant is the talk, and it now looks as if it might be a go.

Pittsfield Advertiser: Last Monday night the boy driver of the one horse stage that runs from Hartland to Harmony, got some four miles out of town when he missed the mail bag. He turned about and with the assistance of Levi Lucas found the bag just one and one-half miles from Hartland postoffice. Now the question is asked by many what right has a 14½ years old to carry a United States mail bag. None less than sixteen years are allowed by law to do so.

GAME INTERESTS OF MAINE

Discussed at a Gathering of Leading Sportsmen—Protection, Propagation and Importation.

The State of Maine has long been acknowledged the best hunting territory east of the Rocky mountains. Moose, caribou and deer live in her vasts woods; ruffled grouse are abundant in her second-growth forests and around her clearings, while woodcock, snipe and ducks are far more numerous than any of the sister States of New England.

Wise laws, enforced more and more vigorously each succeeding year, have favored the multiplication of game to an almost unexpected extent, and yet Maine sportsmen do not feel like resting from their labors just yet.

A most important step was taken Thursday, one which will very possibly inaugurate a new era as far as game importation is concerned. Mr. E. H. Gay, proprietor of the Rockingham House, of Lewiston, had issued a circular letter to the sportsmen of the State, asking them to meet there with the object of forming an association for the importation of extra-limital, and foreign birds whose habits gave promise of a successful introduction into the Pine Tree State.

Many who could not attend in person sent letters breathing a most hearty spirit of goodwill and showing that Maine men will stand shoulder to shoulder in this matter.

Mr. Gay rapped the meeting to order, and then called upon Mr. E. E. Hardy. Mr. Hardy related the experiments of the Massachusetts association since 1874. In that state sharp-tailed grouse, prairie chicken and Rocky Mountain quail have been found to be the best birds.

"Our greatest difficulty," said Mr. Hardy, "has been with the shipping. In many cases the birds were not properly packed. The boxes in which game is shipped must have close tops or the birds will dash their brains out, the first impulse of a game bird being to jump in the air when frightened. The boxes must be so low that the birds cannot jump high enough to hurt themselves.

"We feel that the sharptail is the best bird we can get for Massachusetts. It can stand any cold, and is not fond of the heavy timber, but prefers the edges of the woods. Great care must be taken to place the bird in suitable localities. We experimented with Rocky Mountain quail, California valley and mountain quail, and we found the Rocky mountain quail to succeed the best. Last winter practically exterminated our native quail in Massachusetts, and our work this season will have to be repairing this disaster."

Mr. Gay said that he thought quail were out of the question for Maine, and therefore black game, capercailie and sharptail would seem the most suitable. From the experience of the Massachusetts association, it was thought that sharptails would do best when turned down in lots of 50 and upwards.

An account of the habits of black game and capercailie was then given by Mr. C. A. Bramble, and at the termination of his remarks the report of the United States minister to Sweden, Hon. Mr. Thomas, was read, his account agreeing in all respects with that given by the previous speaker.

Dr. R. H. Daintree, of Lewiston, who has shot the black game in Scotland, expressed his conviction that the birds would succeed in Maine, and went at some length into the methods to be followed in rearing the birds.

Mr. Edward M. Blanding, editor of the Maine Sportsman, said: "The subject is an important one, and cannot be lightly considered. With wise laws better enforced, Maine will, indeed, become a sportsmen's paradise. But in importing game birds we must take good care not to injure our native game, than which none better exists in the world. I think Minister Thomas' opinion is particularly valuable, as he is a Maine man. I trust we shall see you all in Bangor on Jan. 2, when the Maine Sportsmen's Fish and Game Association will hold its first annual meeting."

Mr. W. Ledyard moved that the meeting proceed to organize, and on vote being taken Mr. E. T. Gay, of Lewiston, was elected president, and Mr. J. S. Higgins, of Bath, secretary and treasurer. A further committee of three, viz: Messrs. George Gibbon, E. L. Post and E. F. Field was appointed to perfect details of the organization. It was further moved and carried that "this association join the Maine Sportsmen's Fish and Game Association."

The constitution and by laws of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association were, with trifling alteration, adopted.

The society will be known as the Maine Game and Protective Association. In order to make it as far reaching as possible the membership fee has been placed at $2 and the annual dues at $1.

MAINE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

A Plan for Forming Societies in Each County.

At a meeting of the Maine Historical Society at Portland, Thursday, President Baxter brought up his plan for the organization of county historical societies to act in harmony with the State society. There are already formed in this State the following societies, which it would be desirable to have co-operate with this one in the important work proposed, namely the Pejepscot Historical Society, which may represent Androscoggin; the Kennebec Antiquarian Society, which represents Kennebec; the Bangor Historical Society, which may well represent Penobscot; the Sagadahoc Historical Society, which represents Sagadahoc, and the York Institute, which may represent York county. This leaves Aroostook, Cumberland, Franklin, Hancock, Knox, Lincoln, Oxford, Piscataquis, Somerset, Waldo and Washington counties in which no societies have been formed.

In order to encourage the formation of societies in those counties, which have no historical societies, the standing committee of the Maine Historical Society have, in accordance with the vote at the annual meeting, appointed the following committees whose duty it shall be to form societies in their respective counties and report at the next annual meeting at Brunswick:

For Aroostook—Llewellyn Powers, M. M. Clark, Houlton.

Cumberland—Nathan Goold, Edwin S. Drake, Portland.

Franklin—S. C. Belcher, Rev. Hugh Elder, Farmington.

Hancock—L. A. Emery, J. F. Knowlton, Ellsworth.

Knox—Gen. G. P. Cilley, B. H. Burnham, Rockland.

Lincoln—J. M. Glidden, Newcastle, A. J. Phelps, Damariscotta.

Oxford—John S. Barrows, A. F. Lewis, Fryeburg.

Piscataquis—John F. Sprague, E. T. Herrick.

Somerset—D. W. Hall, Geo. S. Webb, Skowhegan.

Waldo—Joseph Williamson, Jr., L. H. Murch, Belfast.

Washington—L. G. Downes, Geo. M. Hanson, Calais.

To confer with societies already established with a view to establishing fraternal relations with the Maine Historical Society, the following persons are appointed:

A. G. Tenney, Esq., Pejepscot Historical Society. Edward P. Burnham, York Institute.

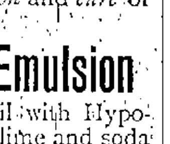

Joseph W. Porter, Bangor Historical Society.

W. Scott Hill, M. D., Kennebec Antiquarian Society.

J. L. Douglass, Sagadahoc Historical Society.

At Thursday's meeting, papers were read by Rufus K. Sewall, of Wiscasset, Mayor Baxter, of Portland, Dr. Burrage and Rev. E. C. Cummings.

Lumbermen Protest.

There was but one sentiment expressed at the meeting of lumbermen Saturday afternoon and that was that the Cleveland-Wilson tariff bill if adopted will prove disastrous to the State of Maine. Democrats as well as Republicans regarded the situation as one freighted with serious consequences for this State. Some of the gentlemen present sought to make a distinction between protection for lumber and protection as a general principle, but there is always a comedy side to nearly all tragedy and these efforts to repudiate Democratic principles without endorsing Republican principles were passed over good naturedly as there was no disposition to make the lot of the Democrats in this State any harder than it is already.

However contradictory it may be with the past utterances and acts of the Democrats, in view of the impending evil all merely party considerations have been dropped and the common purpose of all is to bring such influence to bear as may be possible in the hope of averting what all now recognize as disastrous legislation. It goes without saying that the Maine delegation in Congress will vote and work against the Wilson bill, but both the House and the Senate are in the control of the Democrats and the bill will come before Congress with the unqualified approval of the Democratic President, who, it must be remembered, used the influence of his official position to pass the Mills bill, which was the last Democratic attempt at tariff reform, so called. The opposition to this bill is confined to no one section, but is very general all over the country, it being generally regarded as a piece of legislation that will destroy American industries and place our labor on a footing with the pauper labor of Europe. Whether the Democratic Congress will heed this popular protest and forego its tariff smashing programme is a question to be determined by the future, but the hope of averting the evil is not as bright as it might be.

A Change of Front.

Mr. Bass and the Commercial take a very different position on the lumber question than that occupied in 1884. Then another Democratic patriot, Mr. Morrison, was reforming the tariff and lumber was marked for the free list. The WHIG then as now was fighting the battle for Maine interests, just as Mr. Cassidy now suggests all the papers should do, but the Commercial at that time said:

For ourselves we have confidence in the ability of Maine lumbermen and manufacturers to take care of themselves without any assistance from the government in the shape of protective duties on their products.

To-day Mr. Bass declares that free lumber means disaster to the State, and he is a member of a committee to confer with the lumbermen in other sections in order to work up a protest which it is hoped may prove sufficiently potent to retain for our great industry the "government assistance" which he scorned only a few years ago. At the same time he is inclined to resent any criticism of the party that he is now trying to the best of his ability to ruin not only the business of Maine but the entire country. The attempt of the some of Democratic brethren to make it appear that the Wilson bill is all right with the exception of the free lumber schedule is merely a partisan desire to relieve the party of the responsibility of striking a sweeping blow at American industries generally.

They deceive no one, however, by this style of special pleading. What is taking place in Maine to-day is going on all over the country, namely, a protest against the proposed Democratic revision of the tariff. In other places, as in Maine, Democrats as well as Republicans are up in arms over the disastrous consequences that may be expected to follow the adoption of the Cleveland-Wilson bill. In one State it is coal and iron, in another wool, or plush, or carpets, or woolen goods, or whatever the industry may be, but the protest is general all along the line. Governor McCorkle, of West Virginia, is willing that the industries of New England may be stripped of all protection, but he is perfectly clear in his mind that the removal of the duty on coal would be suicidal. In this State the Democrats care nothing for the duty on wool, but draw the line at lumber, and so it goes all over the country.

This might be termed reluctant testimony as to the advantages of a protective tariff. There is hardly a State in the Union in which more or less Democrats are not clamoring for protection, notwithstanding the fact that the Chicago convention declared that all protection is unconstitutional and the tariff should be levied for the purposes of revenue only. The reason for this Democratic uprising at the present time is not difficult to find. Heretofore they have relied on the Republicans in one branch or the other of the government to save them from themselves. That is to say they have preached the absurd doctrines of free trade as essential to the increased prosperity of the country, while at the same time they have realized the serious consequences that would follow the adoption of said policy, a fact so plain that it has been perfectly safe to count on the utter impossibility of such a law getting through Congress with either branch of the government controlled by the Republicans. Moreover a good many Democrats have regarded the suggestion of free lumber as in the nature of a political scare, simply because the question has been agitated many times without serious results, they having completely ignored the reason for the failure of the project, namely, Republican opposition.

In this way they have gone on voting the Democratic ticket in this State until now they suddenly come to a realization of the dangerous fact that the Democrats have full control of the government and that nothing stands between them and the free lumber menace of the party. This fact has had a very sobering effect and the very men who have treated the free lumber threat with practical contempt are now ready to admit that such a programme means disaster for Maine. They have been playing with fire all of these years and now, if they get their fingers burned they have no one to blame but themselves.

The Hawaii Debate in the Senate.

The Washington Star gives a graphic picture of the debate in the Senate on the resolution calling upon the President for the papers in the Hawaiian case, which was so promptly introduced and brilliantly championed by that sterling patriot and accomplished statesman, Senator [illegible] in the opposition [illegible] ancient days the victorious Romans dragged captive queens down the streets of Rome laden with golden chains. Is there soon to come the spectacle of Hawaiian queens and princesses dragged down Pennsylvania avenue at the mercy of American captors, laden not with chains, but with sacks of sugar?" The Star says:

This allusion brought a general smile to the faces of the Republican Senators, who sat in a compact bunch in the center of their half of the chamber. In the midst was Senator Sherman, grave and watchful. Next him sat Representative Boutelle, whose sympathies have been aroused in defense of Minister Stevens. Beyond was Senator Hale; his head bent over to catch the first chance of a question. On the other side of Mr. Sherman was Senator Chandler, leaning far forward and scanning the face of Mr. Mills with an intense interest. Mr. Hoar wandered about the aisles playing with his bit of red tape and keeping one ear on the talk all the time, ready to pop a question or to propose a biblical parallel. In the row behind Mr. Sherman were Senators Aldrich, Hawley and Higgins, and in front the venerable head of Senator Morrill and the younger one of Mr. Dixon were about together with that of Mr. Cullom. This masked battery of shotted guns was ready to belch forth a terrific broadside at any moment, and the administration's supporters evidently felt the influence of their determination for they wavered in their stand.

ORNAMENT YOUR HOMES

And Make Them Cheerful.

A room with pictures and a room without pictures differ nearly as much as a room with windows and a room without windows, for pictures are loopholes of escape to the soul, leading it to other scenes and spheres, where the fancy for a moment may revel, refreshed and delighted. Pictures are consolers of loneliness and a relief to the jaded mind, and windows to the imprisoned thought; they are books, histories and sermons—which we can read without the trouble of turning over the leaves.—John Gilbert.

They've got things down to hard pan now,
You'd scarce believe your eyes;
The H. O. Staples Clothing Co.
Are in for enterprise.
Fifteen dollar Ulsters, going at Nine,
Scotch Suits at less than ten.
When I bought mine I paid sixteen;
Big drop twixt now and then!
Three Dollar Pants for half that sum,
Cost prices for Underwear.
I'm bound for Staples' Store, By Gum!
I'll buy another pair---And he did it.

Yes, Gentlemen, the above remarks are strictly true. Convince yourself by giving us a call.

WANT ANOTHER TRIAL

Of the Cruiser Marblehead—Builders Dissatisfied

WASHINGTON Dec 9 Harrison Loring & Co, of Boston, builders of the cruiser Marblehead, have applied to the Navy Department for a further trial They are very much dissatisfied with the result of the official trial Lieut Reamy, the reporter of the board directed to report on the Marblehead test, arrived in Washington to-day from New London, Conn and presented the board's findings to Secretary Herbert Expecting to realize a large amount of premium money through a showing of 18 94 knots, the builders are naturally disappointed over the great reduction made by the board on account of tide corrections

They have informed the department that they would have been satisfied with a showing of 18 60 knots, which would give them a round sum in premium payments but as the premiums are given only on each full quarter developed in excess of the contract requirement and not on the fractions thereof the 44-100 will count only as 25-100 of a knot. Secretary Herbert has the request under consideration.

FOUND TOO MANY OBSTACLES.

Hawaiians Believe Willis Came to Restore the Queen.

Queen's Adherents Hopeful but Feel Apprehensive.

The People Will Resist to Bitter End Her Restoration.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal, Dec 9 A correspondent at Honolulu, writing under date of Nov 24 per brig W G Irwin, which arrived late this afternoon, says No positive knowledge has yet transpired as to Minister Willis' instructions or intended action It is the general belief now that he came expecting the ex-Queen to be restored to the throne, either directly or by intervention of popular vote It is also believed that serious obstacles existing to such a course have caused the delay and a reference to Washington

The mystery is still maintained, and the apprehension created has produced great disturbance and irritation in the public mind The tension of anxiety and anger is greater than at any date since the Queen was dethroned This is wearing, painful and depressing to all public interests

Among the obstacles to restoration is the refusal of the Queen herself, unless she receives the strongest guarantees that the United States forces will maintain her upon the throne, knowing that she would otherwise be

and severely dealt with

Again some 1 500 rifles with ammunition are in private hands chiefly American, who are ready to remove her at the earliest possible opportunity

Furthermore, the provisional government is absolutely determined to make no concessions and will firmly maintain their position yielding it only to actual war made upon them by the superior forces of the United States

Added to these obstacles, it is well known that Admiral Irwin and the officers under him are reluctant to make war, probably involving bloodshed, upon American people of Honolulu, their own friends and daily associates If the American minister persists in the intentions generally ascribed to him, he has a difficult and perilous task His own life as well as that of the ex Queen, would be in the greatest danger as soon as his intentions became known

In an interview on the 16th

Minister Willis Said:

"The whole Hawaiian question is now in abeyance and nothing that the newspapers can or do say will alter the situation one iota I make this statement on my own responsibility and in hope that it will allay present excitement There is not the slightest necessity for any one to stay out of beds nights for fear of any trouble of any kind for none will be permitted"

Two days later the minister said to a visitor to whom he refused an alert conference "When I am ready to carry into effect my instructions I shall communicate to them to only two persons one of whom will be the head of the present government and the other the head of the former government"

This was understood by the visitor to mean Minister Willis counted the two persons of equal political importance

The Queen's adherents are extremely hopeful and expectant, but in a state of great apprehension on account of the very excited and irritable condition of the American party The Queen has within a few hours for the first time so limited protection from the provisional government and a police force has been stationed on her premises The government has informally intimated to the American minister that they are amply able to repress any disorder and wish no troops to be landed

Expecting that Something May Have Happened

WASHINGTON, Dec 9 The members of the Administration and of Congress as well as other public men and the officers of the army and navy, are awaiting with great interest the arrival of the next mail steamer from Honolulu due in San Francisco Monday, which leaving Honolulu on the 4th of this month ought to bring news 10 days later than any which has yet come to this country

There is a sensational possibility that excitement in Honolulu may have precipitated a crisis, which gives zest to the desire, never so great as now for news from Hawaii

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Democrats Bound to Adjust an Income Tax

WASHINGTON Dec 9 It is apparently a settled fact as far as the Democratic Committee on Ways and Means are concerned, that there will be no increase in the whiskey tax Members of the committee believe that the trust would be the greatest beneficiary of the tax and moreover it would be a long period before the government would secure any substantial results from the increase if one were made The committee has practically decided that the deficiency in revenues must be secured from a tax on incomes not only on corporations but upon individuals as well It is not certain that they will so report, but they are satisfied that the majority of House Democrats will insist upon such a tax and that it will ultimately pass

A CHICAGO SENSATION

A Club Refuses to Hang a Picture of Gov Altgeldt—Where is the Insult?

CHICAGO, Dec 9 The Evening Post says Gov John P Altgeldt has received an insult at the hands of the Germania Club unprecedented in the history of the State By a vote of four to two the directors of the club have refused to give an oil painting of the Governor a place on the walls of the club house and this refusal was made at the last minute in the face of the fact that the Governor had been invited to speak at the banquet to-night in honor of the 29th anniversary of the organization of the Germania Maennerchor

The Governor's action in the anarchist cases was given as the reason for the insult As a result of this action Governor Altgeldt, who came from Washington for the purpose of attending the banquet, has refused to be present Carl Buenz, German consul in Chicago and Dr Emil Richter representative of the World's Fair commission, were to respond to toasts to-night but both announced that they would not only not speak, but would not attend if there was to be any ovation to Altgeldt

SCENE OF WILD EXCITEMENT.

Bomb Throwing in the French Chamber of Deputies.

Many Persons Injured, but no One was Killed.

People Thrown into Panic and Violent Struggle Ensued.

PARIS, Dec 9 A bomb was thrown in the chamber of deputies this afternoon, but happily without fatal results No matter of great importance was being considered and business of public proceeding was sleepy The galleries contained a number of visitors including some ladies, who watched the proceedings with little interest In the gallery above the benches occupied by the members of the right were a number of strangers, none of whom attracted any attention when they entered the gallery

In the course of business the election of M Mirman came up for discussion. Mirman had been speaking from the tribune and had just descended to resume his seat when a man in the gallery threw a bomb towards the floor of the house

The bomb must have had a time fuse attached to it for as it passed the head of Prof Lemire, deputy for Hazebruch, it exploded with a terrific report A dense cloud of smoke and dust ascended shutting out from view for a time those sitting in the body of the House For a single instant the House was perfectly quiet and then the members and others realized what had occurred and there was the wildest excitement The officers detailed to guard the chamber were the first to regain their senses They at once shut the great doors leading to the chamber to prevent the escape of the bomb-thrower The people in the galleries

Fled in Wild Disorder

fearing that other bombs would be thrown They were in a state bordering on frenzy and almost fell over each other in a wild but futile haste to get out of the building One lady, an American, had been hit in the forehead by a piece of the casing of the bomb, and she fled with the blood streaming over her face

On the floor of the House the excitement was fully as great as in the galleries Many members rushed for the exits, fearing every moment to hear another explosion M Dupuy, president of the chamber, was apparently the coolest man in the chamber

Two ladies beside the American in the lower gallery were injured A man sitting beside the bomb-thrower was also wounded

The deputies wounded were Prof Abbe Lemire, Count Paul Henri Lanjuinais and M Leffet The excitement among the members was wild though it did not last long The wounded were taken to the committee rooms and medical assistance was hastily summoned While this was being done a reporter picked up on the floor of the house bits of metal and a number of horse shoe nails that had evidently formed a part of the Contents of the Bomb

As soon as the smoke and dust had cleared away the members resumed their seats and business proceeded When discussion had finished M Casimir Perier, prime minister, said he did not wish to interrupt the business of the chamber but he felt compelled to assure the house that the government would do its duty After the sitting was ended the members of the chamber journalists and visitors gathered in groups in the lobbies and excitedly discussed the outrage

It was impossible for them to leave the building, as owing to the orders from the police nobody was allowed egress until 6 30 and even then were not permitted to leave until they gave satisfactory proof of their identity When M Dupuy, president of the chamber, descended from his chair and crossed the Salle de la Paix he was given an ovation, owing to his unmoved serenity when the bomb burst

One report has it that twenty or thirty persons were wounded

The Bomb Thrower Captured.

PARIS, Dec 10 Auguste Vaillant, alias Marchal a resident of a suburb is the anarchist who threw the bomb in the chamber of deputies yesterday He made a confession this morning

Vaillant has long been known as an anarchist of extreme type Four detectives went to Hotel Dieu and sought the bed on which Vaillant lay suffering from many wounds

He finally told the story with an air of bravado He attended the chamber, he said for the purpose of throwing the bomb at M Dupuy, president of the house A woman who sat next him seeing him prepare to throw the bomb, tried to seize his arm She failed, but spoiled his aim The bomb struck a cornice and exploded Vaillant's injuries was so severe that he fell to the floor

Vaillant's right arm was shattered his nose broken off and neck and chest lacerated He deserted his wife and two children because he was too lazy to support his family He became a vagabond and thief

The woman who seized Vaillant's arm when he threw the bomb was badly wounded on the face and neck Forty-eight persons were wounded

Birds of a Feather

At an anarchist meeting in Levallois Perret this evening several speakers eulogized Vaillant and the audience rose and toasted the bomb thrower One speaker said they would certainly see more acts like Vaillant's

DEMOCRATIC TIMES THESE.

About 117,000 Unemployed in Chicago Alone.

CHICAGO, Dec 10 It is estimated that the number of men unemployed in this city is nearly 117,000 and so great has their suffering become that the Illinois conference of charities and corrections yesterday appointed a committee of one hundred to raise a charity fund of $1,000 000 for the relief of the most pressing wants of the worthy and deserving poor

The sentiment of the meeting seemed strong in favor of getting the city authorities to provide work for as many unemployed as possible

By actual count 1,119 men sought shelter in City Hall Tuesday night and as many more were stowed away on the stone floors last night

LOST A FORTUNE

Made it in Horse Business but Branched Out too Extensively

INDEPENDENCE, Ia, Dec 10 C W Williams, the noted horseman, yesterday notified R Campbell, who holds a mortgage on his property, except his horses, for $100,000 that he (Campbell) could have the property, which includes the Rush Park race track, opera house, electric street railway and Williams' residence This leaves Williams practically shorn of his fortune although he still owns Allerton and a number of good colts and brood mares

Williams constructed last year an electric street car line, a big hotel and opera house and got heavily in debt His races lost him money and Allerton went lame early in the season Williams got a start by selling Axtell for $105,000 and made a quarter of a million in the horse business in two or three years

INSULT TO VETERANS.

Patriotic Circular Issued by Commander-in Chief of G. A. R.

The Veterans will Guard the Treasury in Time of Peace

As They Gallantly Did the Flag in Time of War.

BOSTON, Dec 9 The following official circular has been issued by Commander in Chief Adams of the G A R

HEADQUARTERS GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, Lynn, Mass, Dec 4th, 1893

Circular No 2

Whereas, The President of the United States in a message to Congress, has stated that "thousands of neighborhoods have their well known fraudulent pensioners, and as the mission of the Grand Army of the Republic is to "encourage honor and purity in public affairs," I therefore call the attention of all comrades, posts and departments of our order to the statement of the President and order them to report to the honorable commissioner of pensions at Washington, D C any person known to be in receipt of a pension not justly entitled to the same under the law and to forward a duplicate of said report to the headquarters at once

Let cases of fraud be proved not implied Information that comes to these headquarters daily of comrades totally disabled whose pensions have been suspended and of widows whose husbands were killed in battle being suspended until they can prove that their husbands were naturalized citizens of the United States leads the commander in chief to believe that the statement is broader than can be substantiated by the facts

If these wrongs actually exist the commander in-chief pledges the support of the Grand Army of the Republic to those who attempt in the line of duty to rectify these wrongs assuring them that the Union veterans are as anxious to guard the treasury of the nation in time of peace as they were to defend its flag in time of war

FREE LUMBER.

It Means Disaster for the State of Maine.

The Indignation Meeting Held Saturday Afternoon.

A Committee Appointed to Make a Formal Protest.

Some Vital Statistics Presented to the Meeting.

The meeting of lumbermen, lumber manufacturers and land owners held Saturday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock at the Common Council room for the purpose of discussing the proposed change in the tariff and to take measures to bring the protest against the change before Congress, was largely attended by the representative men in these lines of business with ship brokerage also represented There was not the least doubt as to the sentiment of the gathering all, Democrats and Republicans alike, agreeing that the proposed tariff changes would be disastrous to the industries of Maine

Of the entire number of speakers there was no dissenting voice in this sentiment, and many of the speakers agreed that while the operators, manufacturers and land owners would all be greatly affected by putting lumber and other articles on the free list the laboring men would suffer deeply as wages would certainly either be much reduced or stop entirely as the mills were closed

Hon D F Davis called the meeting to order and nominated Mr John Cassidy as chairman but Mr Cassidy declined to serve and Hon Lysander Strickland was chosen chairman Mr Strickland read the call for the meeting and then called upon F H Appleton, Esq, for remarks

Mr Appleton said that it seemed to him the most important gathering in his recollection They were assembled not only to consider the welfare of individuals and the city, but the Penobscot river and the State of Maine

They did not come there as politicians or partisans for there was no tinge of party in the meeting but as American citizens and citizens of the State of Maine to protest against a demoralizing and unfair discrimination against the industries of this section He said the movement had his hearty support and that he was ready to do his share in what they hoped to accomplish

Mr John Cassidy said that from what he had previously said all knew what his sentiments were It was an unjust bill and no party advocates it While the Democratic party advocates reform this is not reform but a bill calculated to wipe out all our industries He then cited the case of our shingles being wiped out by foreign competitors even when there was a duty of 25 cents Take off the duty on lumber and other products and it would be the same on all our industries He did not consider it a fair bill

Edward Stetson Esq said there was no doubt but that the bill was an unjust one and surely would not allow the lumber industries to be maintained with the success of the past It must be considered what will be done about it Perhaps it would be best for the meeting to confer with a committee from other sections of the State and then represent to our delegation in Congress what injury would be done by the bill What would eventually be suffered none could tell Temporarily it would almost annihilate business, as none would care to cut logs with this bill hanging over them He advocated the appointment of a committee to confer with other sections of the State

Hon B B Thatcher said that the bill was an unjust one and would not only injure the lumber business but other industries as well Our representatives in Congress are in the minority and on the right side of the question We want influence on the other side Mr Thatcher thought it a good idea to act with other sections of the State in the matter having men who would have influence with the Democratic party and send them to Washington

The bill will hurt us seriously It will help Canada and bring lumber in here to our disadvantage An over supply would greatly reduce the price

Mr Philo A Strickland said he placed the matter on the ground of justice and tariff for revenue only not advocating it as protection He said the first duty was put on as a tariff for revenue only and was so regarded before protection was thought of He believed it to be a matter of justice to have the duty continued as it had been many years

Hon H P Sargent, of Brewer, thought it a good plan to have the interests of this section represented by prominent business men who should go before the committee in Washington and state what effect the bill would have upon our industries

Hon J P Bass thought that an effort should be made with Congress to show what an injury the bill would be to our industries He thought that Massachusetts and Connecticut might not co-operate, as they favor free lumber, the commission merchants getting their commissions just the same

He believed that a committee composed not of Democrats by any means, but as non partisans, should go to Washington and simply state facts The matter should not be represented as a protection measure but should be on a tariff for revenue only basis He thought Calais, Ellsworth and Augusta should send representatives and that there should be systematic work in order to succeed

Mr William Engel said that there was no doubt but that all felt that there was unjust discrimination in the Wilson bill, but the question was to convince the other man Some think that the land owner will suffer and ought to It may affect the stumpage, but the lands are owned by few capitalists, owing to the nature of the property

The income from the lands is uncertain and there may be no income at all years and years, as there may be no lumbering operations upon them The land owner will say if he can't get his price he will not give a permit The day laborer will really be the one who will suffer as he cannot wait as can the capitalist That the laborer's pay will have to be reduced is the truth

We pay from 10 to 25 per cent more for labor than foreigners In answer to this it will be said that the Canadian laborer gets as much as we pay in our water mills, but in reality he does one-third more work. The truth is that for the first season or two the small mills in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will rush in their product and overcrowd the market Our market will be broken

We are a border State and while the Wilson bill takes off the duty on lumber it leaves it on almost everything to get lumber with If the men who are in charge of this Wilson bill are prejudiced the evidence against it will be of no use, but if they are not they will see that it is not right to take protection away from us and put us at a disadvantage. He thought that the matter should be brought before the committee fairly and squarely and from a non-partisan basis. He thought that Calais, Lewiston, Ellsworth and the [illegible] should [illegible]

[illegible] case had been well presented by those who had been heard at the meeting

Mr F W Ayer was in accord with what had been said and believed in the duty

Mr Wilson Crosby said that our representatives in the Senate and House of Representatives were in favor of protection and what further could be done was more than he knew and he had come to the meeting to see

Hon D F Davis said that when Senator Hale was here recently he was anxious that if the people had anything to say on the proposed change in the tariff, they should send a representative to Washington to make known their views, and should also consult with men in other sections of the State Mr Davis said he had also talked with Congressman Boutelle, who had said that of course Maine was for protection, but if nobody offered any assistance and there was a silent constituency, it would not help the case Matters would go by default if the constituency were not behind its representative to give aid and furnish the facts

Mr Davis said that in the press reports concerning the bill there was no uniform statement in favor of it It was so even in the Southern States such as Louisiana, Georgia, West Virginia, for instance, and the Pacific States also In the great importing centers they are in favor of it

It is simply a bill to open the markets of this country to the world and all the foreign papers are in favor of it It is a serious question for Maine as we project into a foreign country which can produce more cheaply than we With the duty off Canada will rush in with her lumber and lumber will be much cheaper We must either shut down work or produce more cheaply and we can't do that

It is a wicked bill and will paralyze the industries of our State Mr Davis advocated the appointment of a committee to confer with other sections of the State and then have a committee go to Washington as he thought there was a good chance to accomplish something It would be a serious matter to the lumbermen, especially those interested in spruce and hemlock, if the bill passed

Mr Samuel Sterns thought it a good idea to have a committee to confer with other lumber sections and give our Representative something tangible in the way of facts and figures He thought the gathering might well be called an indignation meeting The Wilson bill was a stab at Maine and protection of fifty years All, Democrats and Republicans, are in accord in this matter He feared that there was a sentiment in Portland which might not aid them He thought the committee might accomplish a good deal

Mr C A Gibson thought that the threatened interests should be well represented by a committee to go to Washington

Chairman Strickland said that if the bill passed it would strike the heart at blow at the laboring men for if the industry ceased, where would they be? Another injury would be to the saw mills, which are expensive plants and would fast decay He thought there was no doubt but that the localities named will co-operate Mr Strickland presented the following figures of the estimate of logs cut in the State of Maine in 1893

Spruce	[illegible]
Hemlock	100 [illegible] 101

A committee consisting of Chairman Strickland Mr Cassidy Mr Davis and Mr Thatcher was appointed to choose an executive committee and upon motion of Mr Crosby that committee was made eligible as a part of the executive committee of five The committee reported the selection of Hon Lysander Strickland Hon J P Bass, Hon D F Davis, Mr John Cassidy and Mr F W Ayer as a preliminary committee to consult with other sections of the State and then to choose a committee to go to Washington

This committee was unanimously adopted by the meeting which was then adjourned

PROTECTING THE GAME

Proposal to Have Additional Service in the Allegash, Baker Lake and Moose River Regions

Game Warden Thomas Michaud, of Wallagrass Plantation was in the city Saturday for the purpose of consulting Hon T H Wentworth, Fish and Game Commissioner, on various matters of business Warden Michaud reports that deer and caribou are numerous in that section of the State It has been reported that caribou are scarce but he says that in the region where he is located they are as thick as sheep There is no dogging of big game in that section

It is proposed to have extra police service in the Allegash, Baker Lake and Moose river sections of fifty miles each in February when the deepest snow storms generally come, two wardens having each section of fifty miles to cover This will not require any additional men as there are wardens enough at present who will not be specially engaged at that time to do the extra work required

The deep snows give the Canadian hide hunters a good chance to work, as they can easily capture the big game when the animals cannot escape by running, but either wallow about or are entirely helpless One party from Canada is known to have killed eighty moose in this way The trappers also do a great deal of exterminating of game in the deep snow time and it is proposed to look out for both the trappers and Canadians.

An occasional visit of the wardens to the lumber camps will doubtless prove beneficial as it thought that the crews often kill more of the big game than is allowed and more than they have any use for Attention will also be given to the protection of the beaver, which will be allowed to multiply. It is close time on these animals for several years Signs of the beaver have been recently discovered in places where they had previously been driven out and their multiplication will be fostered

RESULTED FATALLY

Mr George Arey Dies from the Effects of Inhalation of Gas.

Mr George Arey, who with his wife, was overcome by gas escaping from a stove at the residence of his father, Dr. Arey, on the Kittredge road, last week, died yesterday morning at eight o'clock from the effects of asphyxiation, It had been thought that he would ultimately recover, but he was in worse condition than was generally supposed. At seven o'clock yesterday morning he felt like sitting up and he was assisted into an easy position, but he lived only an hour afterwards.

His age was twenty-three years and he had been married only two weeks. His wife has been gradually improving but the sudden death of her husband has caused a relapse and considerable anxiety is felt about her. His parents are naturally much overcome. [illegible]

A FRENZIED PASSENGER.

Brakeman Stabbed by a Desperate Tough from Veazie.

An episode occurred on a train Saturday afternoon which had a smack of life in the far West Soon after the 4 40 train for Old Town had left Exchange street station an individual known as "Hod" Day, of Veazie, began to make himself prominent with the aid of an apparent alcoholic influence and for a brief period he ran matters to suit himself

He drew a jackknife from his pocket and flourished it around in such a promiscuous manner that the passengers gave him all the room and huddled together in one end of the car as he appeared to be dangerous and really was as he afterwards proved During the disturbance thus far none of the train men happened to be in the car but Brakeman C D Scribner soon entered and quickly approached Day

Day made a lunge at the brakeman and the knife made a deep cut in one of the fingers on his right hand Scribner seized Day by the arms and called upon the passengers to take the knife away from him, but nobody was willing to perform that feat

During the struggle Brakeman Scribner was again stabbed in the fleshy part of the hand making another deep wound Seeing that the time for decisive action had come the brakeman jumped upon the seat and with a well placed kick in the neck knocked Day to the floor of the car unconscious

He remained unconscious several minutes When he revived his belligerent spirit had left him and he got off the cars at Veazie At Old Town Brakeman Scribner had his wounds dressed by a physician They pained him a great deal Saturday night but yesterday he was feeling much better

A warrant for Day's arrest was placed in the hands of Detective G W Harriman who served it yesterday morning, bringing Day to the city and locking him up in the police station He claims that he remembers nothing about the occurrence He will be before the Municipal Court at once and will doubtless receive his just deserts

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH

Mrs Ollie Spencer is Thought to Have Accidentally Chloroformed Herself

Saturday morning a tragedy was discovered at Stillwater Miss Blanche Frost called at the residence of Mrs Ollie Spencer but received no response to her ring at the bell The house appeared to be deserted, the door being locked and the curtains were drawn, just as they were when she had called

Her suspicions were aroused that all was not right and looking into the keyhole she saw that the key was on the inside She communicated her fears to the neighbors and several men went to the house and forced the door In the sitting room a sad sight met their eyes

Mrs Spencer lay dead upon a quilt spread in front of the stove with her head resting upon the edge of a large box which had been used as a wood box Inside the box were her dead pet kitten, a saucer and sponges and on the floor was an empty bottle There was an odor of chloroform in the room

Coroner Hartwell Lancaster was summoned from Old Town but he deemed an inquest unnecessary after careful inquiries Her mother, Mrs Lizzie Waltz was soon summoned She said that her daughter had procured a bottle of chloroform in Old Town Thursday, saying that she intended chloroforming the kitten, as she was going away and could not bear to have the kitten suffer during the cold months, as she knew of nobody who would take it

Mrs Waltz cautioned her daughter in regard to the use of chloroform but Mrs Spencer seemed confident of knowing how to apply it The young woman was in good spirits and nothing unusual was noticed about her. Thursday evening Mrs Spencer made a call upon Miss Frost and that was the last seen of her alive It was noticed at that time that she had the bottle in her hand

It is generally supposed that in chloroforming the kitten she was overcome by the fumes and perished The appearances would seem to indicate that she intended to close the box in which the kitten was found and throw it in the river, but in stooping over it had been overcome Other theories are advanced as to the cause of her death, but it is understood that the majority think that it was accidental

Mrs Spencer was a young widow, being 32 years of age and a native of Stillwater and she and her mother had lived alone During the past few weeks her mother had been nursing in Old Town Those who have thought the case one of suicide have been unable to ascribe any motive for such a deed It was certainly a tragic ending of life

Death of Mrs Garman

The many friends of Mrs Mary E Garman will learn with regret of her death which occurred on Saturday evening after five weeks sickness of valvular derangement of the heart Mrs. Garman has been teacher of the Forest avenue primary school where she has served most acceptably for many years She was a member of the First Baptist church and held in high esteem by all who knew her Besides her son, Mr George E Garman baggage master on the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, and a daughter Hattie, she leaves a brother, Cashier W. H S Lawrence, of the Kenduskeag National Bank, and a sister, Miss A M Lawrence, teacher of the York street primary school, to mourn her loss

A meeting of the Prudential Committee of the First Congregational church is to be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the parsonage. Several candidates for admission to the church are to be examined

An addition of a number of volumes is to be made to the First Congregational Sunday school library. Quite a sum of money, about $50 is to be devoted to this purpose and the reading facilities furnished to the scholars will be considerably increased

Saturday was about the warmest day we have had recently and the sun made considerable of an inroad into the snow melting it to quite an extent. This improved the sleighing, making the rather "mealy" snow of a better consistency for that purpose

Mr W M Darrington is very busy fitting up his new jewelry establishment in the store formerly occupied by Mr George P Allen and expects to open it the first of this week. He is arranging it in handsome style and will carry a full line of watches, clocks and jewelry

The schooner Izetta is hauled out on the large cradle at Messrs I & I K Stetson's marine railway and is to remain there for the winter. Before she is launched in the spring she is to receive a thorough overhauling and repainting and will be put in excellent condition

Mr H M Whelden, the wood dealer has the large hard best stock of dry and green hard wood of all kinds in the city and orders for fuel left at his yard at the Oakes shipyard will receive the prompt attention. He has wood sawed and split or, in the stick at prices are reasonable. Give him a call when you need a supply

At the First Congregational vestry, last evening a Children's missionary concert was given and it was a very pleasing event arranged by the children. The programme was well carried out and included an able and appropriate address by Mr Miller of the Bangor Theological Seminary. There was a large attendance and all present enjoyed the exercises

Mr and Mrs I H Buck of Chelsea, Mass, have returned home after a brief trip to this city called here by the death of the latter's father the late Capt James G Swett. Mrs Walter Quimby, also of Chelsea, who has been here for the same reason is to remain for a short time. She will be accompanied home by Mrs Swett who is to spend the winter in Massachusetts

After two days of work with the road machines and with picks and shovels the electric railway was again entirely cleared of the snow which blockaded it and the first car reached the toll bridge terminus late Saturday afternoon and since that time the usual trips have been made by the vehicle. It is early in the season for the road to be under snow blockades but it has got through two of them within a week

While the building operations in the city during the past season have not been large they have still been of much more extent than was promised in the spring. Then the outlook was very dull and only a few new houses were begun but later on others were started and so quite a number of new residences have been added to the city, all of them neat and substantial buildings most creditable to their owners and builders. Not as many new dwellings have been put up this season as during each of the past several years but it is to be hoped that next year and those following may see many new structures erected in Brewer. Notable among those constructed in the past few months are the new plant factory of Mr Freeman Littlefield on Parker street and Mr L B Dole's new store and hall building at South Brewer

A Hypnotized Crank

A Paris despatch says Dr Tourette a well known pupil of the late Dr Charcot, was shot while seated in his consulting room Thursday evening

Dr Tourette was seated at his desk reading a book at about 6 P M when the door of his consulting room was opened by a young woman, who rapidly approached the doctor. Dr Tourette sprang to his feet and attempted to escape from the room. The woman fired three shots at him with a revolver before he could make his exit from the room, one of the shots taking effect behind his right ear

The shots attracted the doctor's servant and other people to the spot, and the woman who still held the smoking revolver in her hand, was seized and disarmed

The woman at first refused to give any account of herself to the police but later she said her name was Camper, and excitedly declared that she was justified in shooting Dr Tourette, as he had placed her and kept her continually under his hypnotic influence and that it was utterly impossible for her to regain possession of her own will unless she killed the person to whose hypnotic influence she was subjected

The police, however, are of the opinion that the woman was a patient in the Hospital of La Salpetriere and that Dr Tourette may have attended her during her stay in that establishment, and that this may have led her in her insanity to believe that the doctor had subjected her to hypnotic influence

A REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT

The preparation of a medicine that shall remain on the market for over forty years, gaining new favor with the public and holding all its old friends from year to year is a task that calls for honesty and wisdom, and ability of a high order. True's Elixir, the old standard family medicine has become the household remedy of thousands. It is the mother's friend for its efficacy in all the ordinary diseases of children, especially worms, has never been approached. It is not a worm remedy simply, it is the stand-by of thousands afflicted with troubles arising from a disordered stomach or liver, for in these troubles it has no equal

It is the remedy of old and young, the household safeguard, the medicine that has won the confidence of all who have used it. Its large sale has been slowly and honestly attained, and the increase in the demand for it is not only a source of gratification to the manufacturers, but evidently to the hosts of friends, each of whom after receiving benefit from it, seem to take personal interest in bringing it to the notice of others who have not learned of its value!

The Pig Pen

It is useless to expect large profits from feeding small pigs that are cold or are too closely confined. This, because when they are kept in pens which are not reasonably warm far too large a proportion of the food that is consumed is used to maintain the animal heat

Prof Henry has found by experiment in feeding hogs that bone meal makes corn go farther, and that hard wood ashes are nearly as good as bone meal. The effect of the bone meal and ashes was to save 28 per cent of the corn required to produce 100 pounds of grain. There was about fifty per cent more ash in the hogs receiving bone meal or hard wood ashes than in the bones of those not so fed

There is no danger of a pig getting too warm in the nest if it is dry, and a warm manure heap is better than a bed of ice with wind whistling through the cracks. The constitution of a pig that is to be killed at eight months old is of less importance than that of a cow or a horse and if pigs can stand the cold and exposure which they have been exposed to for generations it would seem reasonable to expect that they would endure a good degree of comfort

The outlook for the price of hogs for the coming winter is good. Farmers should give their pigs warm dry quarters, and feed them to the full extent of their wants. There is no trouble but they will pay well for their feed. The Maine Farmer says The crop of hogs the country over is short and especially so in this State. At Chicago for the past ten months of the year the receipts were a million head short of the same time last year. Butchers in Lewiston and Auburn are already drawing on the Chicago market by the carload to supply the home trade. It is true pigs are not plenty, but such as are old enough should be fitted for the market in the shortest practicable time

"Two years ago" says Waldo L Brown "an old farmer asked me if young pigs could be weaned and kept thrifty without milk, and I told him I thought slop could be made with bran and oil meal that would be both palatable and nutritious. Last spring I had nine pigs and but little milk, and it was needed by the family and to raise a calf so I made a slop for the pigs with bran and oil meal and never grew a more thrifty lot, and they sold at 150 days old at top prices for pig pork. If any farmer will try the experiment of stirring one pound of old process oil meal into a ten quart pail of boiling water and see how near it comes to making a mush then add this to ten gallons of slop made from bran and see what a good body it gives it he will begin to get an idea of the value of oil meal as a pig food. Bran is an excellent food for any growing animal but alone it does not make good slop particularly the coarse bran made by the roller mills, the oil meal added makes it far more palatable and the pigs will eat more of it

It goes without saying, says Rural World that the nature of the feeding largely influences the quality of the pork. The public taste in the matter of fat, not only in pork but in the case of beef and mutton, has undergone a great change. A much larger proportion of lean is now demanded. This is not fortifying when pigs are fed almost entirely on maize and although to purchase it must be conceded that maize is by far the cheapest grain, yet it may not prove economical in the end because the pork manufactured from it will realize a lower price. Barley is perhaps of all grains the favorite pig food of this country, and justifiably so because it contains the required constituents in better balanced proportions than does any other single cereal, but experience has proved that even here a mixed diet is far preferable. Beans, peas, wheat, barley and maize all ground together form the best meal either for growing or fattening pigs. It produces a fine grained pork, well mixed with lean. During the last few weeks the quantity of maize may be increased, but during growth and the early stage of fattening it should not be excessive. He fed a thrifty vigorous pig, twelve weeks old upon dry maize and water. Within three weeks there were indications of fever, the limbs subsequently became stiff, the skin dry, the animal extremely costive and its appetite bad. During the fifth week there was great weakness in the hind quarter swelling of the sheath retention of the urine and costiveness and the appetite was still bad. He then changed the diet to wash and cooked bran and in three weeks the animal was apparently well. Johnson says that maize contains 75 per cent of heat-producing substances 12 per cent of flesh and bone-forming constituents and 7 per cent of fat formers, but if maize is valuable as containing this amount of really formed fat, it may be still further enhanced by mixing with nitrogenous foods, such as beans and peas, because it then is able the animal to utilize the whole of this which it can not do without them

The Dairy

An Iowa creamery reports paying one patron for milk from seven cows $32 18 a cow a month for the nine months from April 1 to Jan 1 of last year. Another patron with twenty two cows made them average $23 29 a month for the same time but the proprietors say that with the same amount of milk milked from October to May they would guarantee that the cows would average $5 each or more a month. The advise their patrons to plant some fodder corn for full use when grass begins to give out and urge them to build good warm stables for their cows as they will do better on half the feed it takes to keep them up when exposed to all kinds of weather. This is practical talk and applicable to other regions. The prices paid there varied from fifty cents in June and fifty five cents in July to one dollar in December for 100 pounds of milk

A correspondent at Cornish Flat sends the following statement of income from ten cows owned by J W Pierce, South Cornish, kept at Lindview Farm for year ending Oct 31 1892. Cash received for butter at Cornish creamery $412 31, cash received for calves sold $ 7 05, cash received for skim milk fed to hogs $72 23, two calves kept to raise $, 1460 quarts of milk used in my family at two cents per quart $29 20 total, $626 85. Average per cow $62 27 estimated cost of keeping per cow, $40. Four of the herd were heifers with first calf. During summer months the herd had nothing but what they got in the pasture. During the winter months their rations were daily 1½ pounds bran, 4 pounds of cottonseed meal, ensilage and hay. From the same source we have a fac-simile of the report of World's Fair judges on the butter shown by Cornish Flat creamery, W D Baker superintendent. The butter scored 99 in a possible 100; and the one point off was in the make up, the sample being perfect in flavor, grain, texture, color and salting

A man who has but one cow watches her appetite and knows her likes and dislikes, gives her good, thorough care. He has not however, learned from her how to care for two cows. The other will have different tastes and peculiarities and to make them do their best all animals in a herd, must have a special care. Many herds have been so bred and handled that there will be but little difference in the needs of the animals and the same general methods will apply to all, but the feeder should bear in mind that he is dealing with individuals and not with a company under military orders which all must obey alike. Regularity and system are of great importance on a farm but in the care of stock they must not be carried too far, for while the exact methods may be the best that can be adopted for most of the animals the loss on others may be very great. In feeding cows the object is not to get a certain amount of food and water consumed by the herd, but to give each cow all she can properly consume of what she will give the most return for

Dressing Mutton

The best time to dress mutton, says Ind Farmer, is in the early morning when the sheep have partially empty stomachs. The head is severed from the body by either knife or ax. The gambrels are quickly inserted and the carcass hung up just high enough so that it will not touch the ground. If the operator [illegible] pail of water to arrest the gas and prevent it from permeating the flesh from the entrails. The hind legs are skinned down to the gambrel joints before it is hung, and the skinning process begins here. When the legs are free from the pelt the remainder of it can be removed without the aid of a knife after it has been opened up along the belly and around the tail. This is done with the closed hand or fist, working it off by pressure around the body of the sheep holding the pelt with one hand and working it off with the other fist. The next process is removing the entrails which work is not unlike that of disemboweling any other animal. If there is no refrigerator on the farm the carcass should be halved and hung in an open deep well by means of a rope. Thus managed it will keep for some days. It will be a good plan to make arrangements with some neighbor to half about with him in killing a sheep. Mutton from a well fed sheep dressed in the manner above described is neither poisonous nor distasteful but on the contrary, is the very best of meat

Hens for Profit

A year ago my mother gave me ten hens, and said if I would sell the eggs and keep a strict account of how many they laid that after paying for all they had to eat I could have what money there was left. In the year just ended, November 10 they laid 153 dozen eggs and I have $20 left after paying for all they have eaten. That is $2 00 profit on each hen. I have put it in the bank. I am ten years old

GOOD MANNERED MONKEYS

Dr Abbott of Philadelphia Discovers a New and Pretty Kind

Monkeys as a rule—certainly as we in America know them—are not distinguished for good manners, beauty or tidiness and surely not for elegance or grace. Yet now we have a new species to consider, a monkey possessed of all these good qualities, yet playful and active as any of its frisky kind. For its introduction we are indebted to Dr Abbott of Philadelphia who discovered it recently at Mount Kilima Njaro, in the eastern part of equatorial Africa and brought back to America fine specimens. Not only are these monkeys neat, quiet and well behaved but they are among the most beautiful of animals and they are said to take the greatest care not to soil or to injure the beautiful coat of long hair with which they are adorned

The drapery of silky, silvery white hair begins at the shoulders, extends along the sides of the body, and meets over the lower part of the back. When the animal springs swiftly from one bough to another, the floating of this beautiful mantle gives it the appearance of being winged

The chin, throat, temples, sides of the head and a band above the eyes are also white, the rest of the body is covered with a fine glossy black fur. The tail, which is unrivaled by that of any other monkey in the world, is fringed with pure white hair that glistens like spun glass and the hair gradually increases in length as it approaches the tip, where it droops in a festoon of silvery grasses

The five brought here by Dr Abbott and presented to the Smithsonian Institution are with one exception it is believed the only specimens that have ever been seen outside the native home of the animal. The caudatus as this species has been named belongs to a remarkable genus of so-called thumbless monkeys, which have in the last 10 years furnished millions of victims to the goddess Fashion. Their beautiful skins have been so greatly in demand for robes, capes and muffs that the whole race is in danger of extinction—December St Nicholas

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

For the reinforcement of my Retail and Prescription trade I have made special preparations. To my already efficient helpers I have added yet another, MR. B. J. BIGELOW, who as head clerk, will devote his attention to the general oversight of the business of my Retail Store, No 2 Main street. Mr Bigelow has had seventeen years of experience in large retail stores, and comes from Boston with the highest recommendations. I have thus in my employ at this store three clerks all of whom are competent to compound the most difficult and important prescriptions with care and neatness. To guard against even the slightest possibility of error every prescription passes under the scrutiny of at least two of these clerks. Patrons are thus assured against long delays and possible errors in the filling of their orders. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

Very truly yours,

A Few Reasons Why the Sales of the

KINEO STOVES and RANGES are Constantly Increasing.

Because the people know they are the best.
Because of the merits they have, which Other Stoves have not.
Because every desirable feature to be desired is found on them.
Because quality is the true test of cheapness, and the best is the cheapest.
Because they are the richest in design and ornaments of usefulness.
Because our new Coal Grate gives the best satisfaction of any patent grate manufactured.
Because less talk is required to sell them than any other Stove or Range in the market.
Because our Stoves and Ranges are more attractive than others.
